Artemide

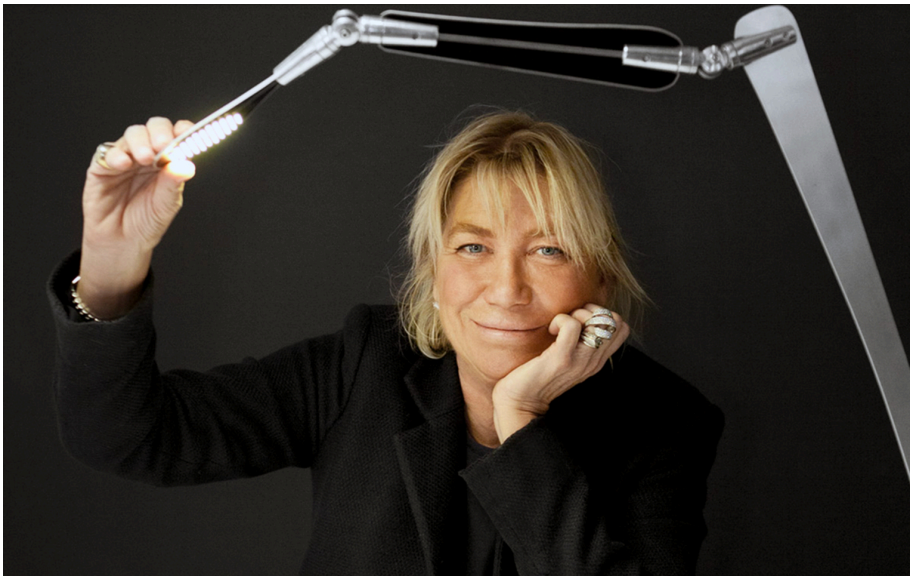

Carlotta de Bevilacqua received the CEO Awards

The Forbes CEO Awards, held entirely in digital mode, awarded prizes to the best Top Managers at the helm of business realities in our country who, during 2020, distinguished themselves for their audacity and initiative, consolidating the competitiveness of their companies on international markets and making them, at the same time, better workplaces and more sensitive to people's needs.

"It's with great emotion that I receive the CEO Italian Awards for representing Italian design in the world over the years.
And it's exactly the word Italy that brings us back to the place where design was born.

Design means project, always born from a synthesis between scientific research, humanistic vision, manufacturing, "téchne" (art of know-how), which today is constantly measured by the values of environmental and social sustainability.

Artemide has been designing and producing light for 60 years, through Italian know-how, it dialogues with the international project.“
